What is the CAA International?

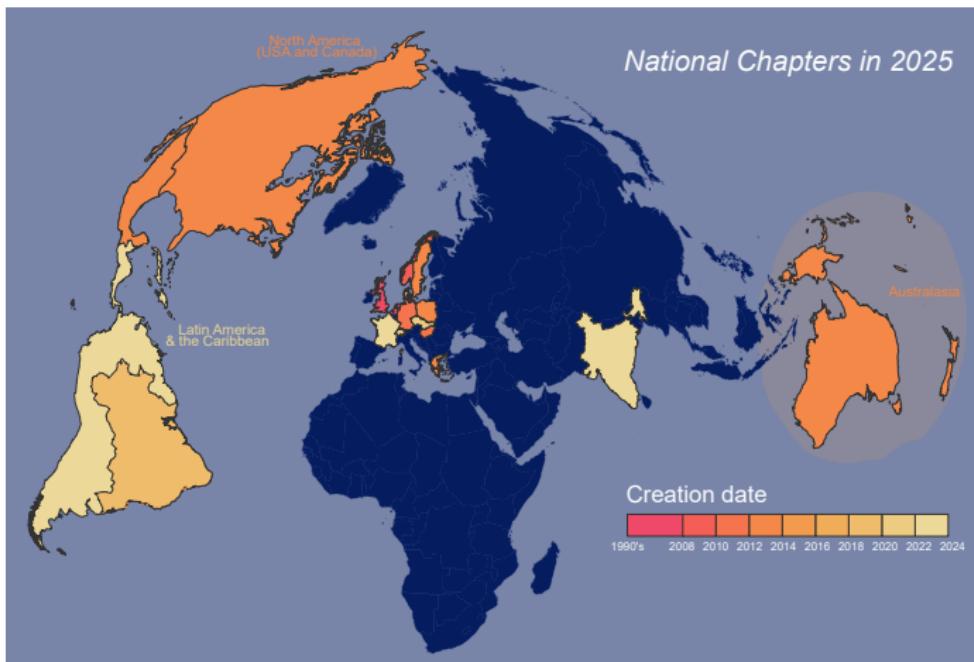

Computer Applications and Quantitative Methods in Archaeology

CAA is an international organisation bringing together archaeologists, mathematicians and computer scientists. Its aims are to encourage communication between these disciplines, to provide a survey of present work in the field and to stimulate discussion and future progress.

CAA-FR Website

The screenshot shows the homepage of the CAA-FR website. At the top, there is a navigation bar with links for "Hypotheses" (highlighted in red), "OpenEdition Search", and "Tout OpenEdition". Below the navigation bar, the CAA logo is displayed next to the text "CAA—France — Computer Applications and Quantitative Methods in Archaeology – France". A horizontal menu bar follows, containing "CAA-FR", "Actu", "Nous rejoindre", "ACQuA", "Événements", "Ressources", and "Enseignements". A "MIS EN AVANT" section titled "Bienvenue" is visible, featuring the CAA France logo and a brief welcome message. To the right, there is a sidebar with the CAA logo and the text "Computer Applications and Quantitative Methods in Archaeology (CAA)". Below the sidebar, a list of activities is provided.

MIS EN AVANT

Bienvenue

CAA France

Bienvenue sur le site du CAA-FR, le chapitre français de l'organisation internationale Computer Applications and Quantitative Methods in Archaeology \(CAA\).

Les activités du CAA-FR visent à :

- promouvoir les Approches Computationalles et Quantitatives en Archéologie (ACQuA).
- animer ces recherches en collaboration avec les autres groupes et réseaux de recherche existante en France et dans les espaces francophones,
- constituer une interface entre les communautés françaises / francophones et la communauté internationale.
